-Of Local Interest-

The Ladies' Aid Society will have an entertainment at the court house on Dec. 19.

The handkerchief sale advertised by the Young Peoples' Missionary Society of Presbyterian church has been postponed.

Eld W H Baker, of Glasgow, Ky., has accepted a call to the Christian church of Meridian, Miss., and will leave for his new charge in January.

More Improvements.

The Bastin Telephone people are putting in a new line of heavy poles between Livingston and Mt. Vernon. A new wire will be strung between these points in next two weeks.

Good Youngsters.

As Christmas draws nigh, attendance at Sunday School increases. Mr H A B Marksbury said last Sunday, "If the attendance at the Christian Sunday School continues to increase, we will have to enlarge the building."

A Great Missionary Rally at Danville, Ky.

On Dec. 15th the Christian churches of this part of the state will unite in a great rally. Speakers of national reputation besides talent of the local churches will be on the program. The Danville church will entertain the guests for dinner, the invitation is unlimited.

Catholic Services.

Father Beeler, of Nicholasville, was here Sunday and conducted services at the court house. Father Beeler is a good man, and has many friends here, not only in his own church, but with the people generally. There are quite a number of Catholics in this locality, and if an effort should be made to erect a church building we believe enough contributions would be readily forthcoming to complete the work.

Ex-Gov. Bradley Better.

The Louisville Post says former Gov. Bradley was able to return to his office Saturday, the first time in ten weeks: Gov Bradley recently suffered a mild attack of typhoid fever, which has left him in a weakened and nervous condition. "I am feeling as well as could be expected," said Gov Bradley, "and with the appetite I have, I think I should soon regain my strength. However, I have not been on any bear hunts yet, some of the local papers to the contrary, notwithstanding."

City Assessment.

At the meeting of the City Council Monday night, Judge M D Hughes filed his assessor's books, and the following is a part of his report: "Real estate is looking up, as indicated by sales, the property being listed at purchase price. Uniformity prevails in that class of property. Personal property has been unsettled and variable, requiring extra work to list it properly. Some estates have been settled and distributed among non-residents. Others have left the city and considerable property has gone out. Several thousand dollars have been invested in City bonds, which are not listable. These various causes incurred a loss of forty thousand dollars, as the items will show. This loss has been overcome and the property list has been increased $25,000 which required gains of $65,000. This list now amounts to $807,055, as against $872,000 last year." The list filed by Judge Hughes is the most complete the City has ever had, and his diligent work merits the thanks of the people of the town. Mr Hughes visited each part, going to some several times. The books are neatly prepared and have been highly complimented.

Too High to be Popular.

The high prices asked for turkeys for the Thanksgiving trade is said to have caused a rebellion and a correspondingly large reduction from the usual sales, especially in the larger cities, and as a result there are a large number of these succulent birds left on hand in cold storage for the Christmas market. The Courier-Journal in discussing the subject says: "Poultry dealers anticipate a repetition of the light demand for the Christmas trade, and will make their plans accordingly. The crop of turkeys in the country this year was small, and dealers were able to get what they needed for the trade only because the wants of the community were restricted. While the people last year paid as high as 22c a pound for their turkeys, they were unwilling to do the same this year, and sacrificed sentiment to expediency, dining on pork or beef on Thanksgiving, although the price was not as high as it was then."

"Unless the light buying should cause a rapid fall in the price before the December market opens, the movement promises to be decidedly light for Christmas sales. The rebellion against the high prices is of a substantial nature, and dealers do not anticipate a reversal of sentiment among consumers when the holidays roll around."

A Card of Thanks.

We take this method of expressing to those neighbors and friends who were so kind in our recent bereavement, our sincere thanks. We appreciate, deeply, the many kind favors and words of comfort. Mrs R. A Burnside, Louis Landrum.

A nice Xmas present for your friend would be a yearly subscription to The Record.

Much moving is now under way, and by first of January many will have new locations.

Mrs John F Gallaher, daughter of the late Allen Burnside, is very low of pneumonia at her home in Danville.

Eld. F. M. Tindler will preach next Sunday on the following subjects: 10-30 A. M., "Our Fellowship," 7 P. M., "Getting Ready for Christmas."

Mr R A Stone has about completed a neat dwelling on his lot on Richmond street. More dwellings are needed, as rent is outrageously high in Lancaster.

Money For Teachers.

Mrs Lewis Walker, the efficient Superintendent, has received money for county teachers, and will be ready to pay same Saturday.

The Town Vote.

In City Assessor M D Hughes' report it is shown there are 243 white and 201 colored voters in the limits, total 444.

This office has been full to overflowing with job work this week. The people are learning that they get what they want at The Record office and it don't cost 'em a fortune, either.

Big Gourd.

Mr J W Smith, of Paint Lick, showed us a gourd which measures exactly five feet seven inches in circumference. It was raised a year ago, and has been dried and hollowed out. It will hold a bushel and one peck.

Killing in Lincoln.

James H Kennedy, a son of Grove C Kennedy, shot and killed Will Holmes, son of Dud Holmes, near Cedar Creek, in Lincoln county, Saturday night. Kennedy claims a clear case of self defense, and immediately surrendered to the authorities.

The City Council met Monday night. This was the last meeting of the year, and Mayor Robt. Kinnaird treated all the city officials to oysters at Zim's restaurant. The editor is thankful for an invitation, which press of work prevented our accepting.

Don't forget Miss Sallie Elkin's sale of decorated porcelain at the W C F U rooms, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 18 and 19. This is a good chance to get something nice for Xmas, so don't make all your purchases until you see the stock.

We have information from the farmers, who have examined the growing crop of wheat that it is damaged by the recent cold spell, there being no snow to protect it, the late sowing badly damaged, on account of the drouth the plant did not take root sufficient, and the plant being tender looks to be winter killed.

Shameful, But True.

The Maysville Ledger, Republican, says: "If the coming Legislature takes the necessary steps to disfranchise the negro—and it is a foregone conclusion that it will—it will be a heavy blow to a large number of industrious voters in this city. The unpurchasable negroes in Maysville could be loaded into a single street car, and those who pay poll tax could travel in a wheel barrow. This is shameful, but it's true."

Editors to Meet.

The mid-winter session of the Kentucky Press Association will be held at the Galt House, Louisville, Friday. This is not the best time to hold the meeting, as the editors are very busy but as matters of vital importance to every newspaper publisher must be attended to at once, the committee deemed it best to call the meeting now. It is hoped all will be there, and indications are that most of them will. Addresses will be made by Hon. Henry Watterson, Col W C P Breckinridge and other prominent newspaper men, while papers will be read by other editors of the state press. The editor of The Record was honored by a place on the program.

Excellent Edition.

The special edition of the Burlington Bee, the railroad and mining edition, is by far ahead of any similar undertaking we have seen. The press work is as good as can be done anywhere, and the contents are of especial interest to the people of Kentucky. Many of the railroad boys are written up in style, while the facts and figures concerning the mining and railroad interests of the state are interesting to all citizens interested in Kentucky's progress and enterprise. The work reflects great credit upon the noble editor, Mr Paul Moore, and we join the newspaper boys of the state in extending heartiest congratulations upon his complete success.

Why not send The Record to your friends as a Christmas gift? Nothing would be more acceptable than a "letter from home." Only $1 from now 'till Jan. 1, 1905.

Every customer purchasing $15.00 worth of goods for cash will receive 50 cents worth of any goods in the house free. Thompson the Jeweler.

CENTRAL RECORD.

LOUIS LANDRAM.

Lancaster, Ky., December 11, 1903.

Much space is occupied in the modern daily newspaper with reports of graft in official circles of dishonesty in business lines and of matrimonial infidelities that lead to disgraceful and demoralizing stories in divorce trials. And when you stop to think about it, all these things are happening among the good element of the country, among those people who as a rule stand high or ought to be respected in their respective communities, whose training argues the fact that they should certainly have known better to do what they did. The safety and permanency of a nation depends largely upon the purity of its society. Rome fell because the Romans were internally corrupt. A sober reflection on the matter brings the thought that it would be well indeed, for the American people to call a halt and resolve for an improvement along certain lines. An improvement is imperative and would be refreshingly welcome.

All may not like in its entirety Capt. Hobson's plan to spend $1,500,000,000 by the year, 1925, on our navy to make this country the first naval power in the world but most Americans will admit that it would be a sagacious policy for this government to increase the number and strength of its warships very materially each year. The United States can maintain the peace so far as it is directly concerned, largely by putting its fighting power and equipment up to a standard where warlike and jealous nations would fear to attack. In other words, let our war forces be so prepared for trouble that envious countries will hesitate to start trouble.

Christmas is coming. Don't forget to do something to cheer others whose Christmas will be gloomy and sad if you fail to do something to make them merry. There is nothing like doing a thing on time, you know. Keep this idea in mind, everybody. Let's all say, "Altogether."

Soldier James Watson, of Sullivan, who is having a hard time in convincing the pension department that he is alive, probably feels like Mark Twain, when the latter remarked: "The report of my death was somewhat exaggerated."

Mr. Boll Weevil is the principal delegate to a convention of cotton growers in New Orleans. A strong effort will be made to unseat him.

If "Mrs. Wiggs" falls heir to the millions for which she has presented claim, she may change her "cabbage patch" to an orchid bed.

Cleveland has given the ultimatum that he is not a candidate for the nomination for president. Hear Bryan say, "I told you so."

Grand Rapids' boodle scandal would do credit to New York or Philadelphia, but St. Louis is yet in a class by itself.

Cuba is experiencing a snow. Thus are American institutions taking hold on the new republic.

Why not put skates on Dan Patch and let him try for a few records on the ice?

Report From The Reform School. J. G. Gluck, Superintendent, Prunty town, W. Va., writes: "After trying all other advertised cough medicine we have decided to use Foley's Honey and Tar exclusively in the West Virginia Reform School. I find it the most effective and absolutely harmless." C. C. & J. E. Stormes. 1m

Land, Stock, Crops.

In Carroll county about 100,000 lbs of tobacco, new crop, has been sold at 10 to 12c per pound.

Mr. Chas. R. Thompson, of Payne's depot vicinity, bought of George C. Graddy, of Woodford county, a pair of big sugar mules for $310—Georgetown Times.

At the thoroughbred sales at Lexington Wednesday, Ben T. Franklin bought the 5-year-old mare, Eleanor Francis, by imp. The Sailor Prince, dam Austrian by Alarm, for $100.

It is said that deep plowing in England has doubled the yield of wheat, oats and other crops. They plow as deep as twenty inches. Steam plows are used.

Judge Hughes sold his fine buggy mare to Mr. Warfield for $550. John I. VanArsdall took the animal to Lexington, Thursday, to ship her to California.

I. N. Greene sold last week 53 1,500 lb export cattle to Greene & Lyman at 4c. John T. Woodford delivered on Monday 49 1,325 lb feeders at 4c.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

All dead and diseased raspberry canes should be cut out and burned at once. This destroys many insects and prevents a great deal of disease from spreading throughout our plantation in spring.

"The highest price ever paid in this country for a single fowl," says the Indiana Farmer, "was paid this season for a Buff Plymouth Rock cockerel. He sold for $300 and four females to be mated with him sold for $200.

Frozen combs stop the supply of eggs. Rub a few drops of glycerine on the comb and wattle to heal them, for until they are healed you will get no eggs, and eggs are money these days.

A plan is now on foot by the people of Lexington to make the State Fair a permanent institution at that place. They offer to give sixty acres of ground if the State will support the project.

An exchange pertinently says: Why not ask our Congressmen to have the tax taken off tobacco and permit every farmer to manufacture his own crop should he so desire? That would burst the trust and insure to every grower a fair consideration for his product. It would be more effective than organization among the farmers and would make the crop the most valuable staple in the United States."

It is said that a man named Weltze made $40,000 last year on bull frogs. His ranch was in the vicinity of Beaumont, Texas. He will increase his force by thirty frog catchers the next year and establish another frog kindergarten on the Mississippi.

A kidney or bladder trouble can always be cured by using Foley's Kidney ure in time. C. C. & J. E. Stormes. 1m Strawberries should be covered with three or four inches of straw, or other litter which is free of grass or other seed, before cold weather. The earlier and heavier we make our application of straw the more we are assured for a good crop.

M. R. Jacoby bought 200 barrels of corn, delivered at station, for $2.50 per barrel. Claude Weathers, of Little Rock, sold to Elmer Beardman, 12 hogs averaging 250 lbs. at $4 per hundred. Dr. Ussery and Ben Woods sold to E. E. Woods and Omer Lloyd, 700 shocks of corn in field at $2.25 per barrel, fodder thrown in, also 700 shocks to Penn & Steele at same price.—Paris Kentuckian.

It is generally known that large sections of Alaska are suited for farming and gardening. Such crops as oats, wheat, rye, barley and flax have been raised, and vegetables—potatoes, turnips, beets, peas, celery, etc.—grow in abundance. The tillable and pastureland of the Territory, at a conservative estimate amounts to 100,000 square miles, and will support 3,000,000 per sons.

Hens naturally lay at a time of the year when they can get an abundance of bugs, worms and vegetable matter—kinds of food that enrich the blood and tone up the system, preparing them for the extra work of producing eggs. Green cut bones supplied during the winter and green stuff, such as clover hay, cabbage, etc., give them the necessary material with which to produce eggs.

Figure on the matter any way you will, there is no cheaper, economical and better way of harvesting the corn crop than putting it into the silo.—Shredding and husking is the next best and cheapest. Husking it out of the shock and leaving the fodder to waste and rot on the field is the dearest and worst way. In some sections of the state, shredders are in such common use, that not enough engines can be secured locally, to run them. Fifteen years from now farmers will not think of husking their corn in the field, any more than they would of threshing out their wheat with a flail.

Mr. Edward Downing, of Lexington, is displaying samples of tobacco grown under canvass. His is the first experiment to be made in Fayette county. Results are gratifying. He has produced a yield several hundred pounds greater to the acre and of cigarette wrapper grade. Some of his plants attained a height of eight feet. This year Mr. Downing only had two acres under canvass. While the expense of covering this much territory was $400, he believes that on a more extensive scale and computing the cost for ten instead of one year, the expense per acre can be reduced to a probably $50. This would make the method highly advantageous over the open field. The leaf grown under canvass is free from sand holes, and is not disturbed by worms.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. The bride was attired in a beautiful traveling suit of brown cloth and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. ### IN MEMORY

Of Mary Catherine Walker, Aged 85.

Mary Catherine Walker breathed her last on the morning of December 4th, 1903, after a long life of eighty-five years, and a few weeks of failing health, terminating in the paralysis, whose insidious onset she could no longer resist. She was the daughter of William Walker and Sarah Lapsley. Her ties of relationship included the prominent Kentucky families of McKee, Letcher and others. The greater portion of her life was spent at Lancaster Ky., the little village among the Garrard county hills where many distinguished soldiers and statesmen had birth. Where the pioneer citizens had for their watchword the onward and upward motto that tends to the making of honest, earnest women and men. Domesticated in the home of her only sister, wife of General W J Landram, both now deceased, she was a second mother of the little ones around the hearthstone, and her every aim was centered in their welfare. Their joys were hers; their pain was intensified in her loving heart. "Aunt Kate" was the panacea for every childish woe. Her busy hands were ever alert for them and theirs. And to the credit of the circle be it said that they appreciated and prized her. That they surrounded her with comforts and spared her the pangs of a lonely, loveless old age.

Along the quiet path of earth—far from madding crowd—she walked steadily to the end, which came to her as sighs the gentlest zephyr, in her sunlit chamber on Davidson Court at Lexington, with the morning breezes playing about her window, and the birds of the air carolling their matin' song. Her loved ones were about her ministering to her needs, and ne'er a wave of anxious thought crossed her peaceful breast.

Calmly as she had been wont to speak her wishes she spoke them now. She was reared in the Presbyterian faith, and the grace that is promised the steadfast was abundantly hers. She did not murmur. She softly implored at intervals, "Come Lord, come quickly—The Lord tarries." She bore her meed of suffering with the heroism of silence, and her feet entered the flowing river without halt or faltering.

Her character was a positive one. Her friendships were strong and her opinions were firm. Apart from the church and the fireside she rarely diverged, till the trumpet sound of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union called her to the ranks. Then the white ribbon banner became hers, and with modest zeal she was enlisted for the advance of the great reform. She was the last of her generation. Her nearest surviving relatives are Mrs Mary Burnside and Mr Louis Landram, of Lancaster; Mrs Addie L. McFarland, of New York; Mrs Ella L Dunlap, of Lexington, and Mrs Kate L McGugin, of Ohio.

Her remains were taken to Lancaster, where the funeral services were held. She sleeps upon earth that was hallowed by tender memories and where her best beloved have their resting-place. Exquisite flowers bloom above her, watered by the tears of consecrated affection.

If you are too weak to journey, Up the mountain steep and high, You can stand within the valley While the multitudes go by. You can visit the afflicted, Or the erring you can weep, You can be a true disciple, Sitting at the Saylor's feet.

E. D. PORRIS.
